Meet Steven Callas, Candidate for Northfield Village Trustee

Northfield has been part of Steven Callas' life since childhood. After growing up in the area and attending Middlefork, Sunset Ridge, and New Trier, he returned in 2023 with his wife to raise their two young children in the community that helped shape him.

Steven is the founder of Gilded Travels, a boutique travel advisory, and previously spent more than a decade producing film, television, and commercials. Across both careers, he has developed skills in planning, budgeting, problem-solving, and bringing people together to achieve a shared goal. As a small business owner, he understands the importance of responsible spending, careful preparation, and listening to the people he serves.

Since returning to Northfield, Steven has followed Village Board meetings closely and become increasingly engaged in local issues. He believes residents should be informed and consulted early in the decision-making process, particularly when major financial commitments and community changes are being considered.

As a trustee, Steven hopes to strengthen resident engagement, support a Village Center that serves the community and its existing businesses, and keep Northfield attractive to young families while preserving its small-town character.

Steven lives with his wife and two toddlers. The family enjoys afternoons at Clarkson Park, visits to the library, and the occasional game of Connect Four at Taco Nano. He hopes to bring a young family's perspective, thoughtful planning, and a collaborative approach to Northfield's future.
